Commander's Update By RADM Paul C. Dyl

Rear Admiral
Paul C. Dyl

Greetings everyone, and Happy Holidays!

Yes it's true that the holiday season is upon us. Time just seems to be going by so fast.

I would like to welcome our two new family memberships; The Mogilka Family from South Carolina and also the Staples Family, also from South Carolina. Welcome aboard and I hope your tour with us with be an enjoyable adventure. This now brings our crew to 74. Let's keep up the good work in recruiting.

As an update on Marlene Miller. She is doing good. She is still in physical rehab but from the emails I have received from her she seems to be doing very well. Her spirits are up and she is looking forward to completing her rehab and returning home.

I wanted to let you know about a change to the newsletter. We have decided to add a column taken from the headlines about science and health issues. You will see from this issue that we did a science column and by the next issue we will be featuring both.

During the holiday season we have three main events taking place. They are the Thanksgiving Day Meal, The Angel Tree Project and then the Christmas Party. I will let the XO explain each in her article. Just let me add that if you can participate in any or all the events, please feel free to do so. I look forward to seeing as many of you as possible.

Chapter Business

Ok for the past month or two, we have had discussions about honoring our dearest departed Commanding Officer Admiral Helen Pawlowski by renaming the chapter from the SS TROUBADOUR STATION to the USS HELEN PAWLOWSKI. This will also change our class. The feelings of the crew was that we wanted the proto type Lynx Class Timeslip Cruiser. This is because it represents the ideas and enjoyment that Helen represented. She loved the world of Science but also History and how we can learn from history. The problem is that STARFLEET DTS and ASDB may not approve it. My argument is that in 1994-1997, I command a correy chapter that was in fact this class and called the USS LYNX.

Well I went back to re-write this part of the article. As you all know now that STARFLEET embraced our idea and request for the renaming of the chapter after Helen and HQ also approved our class change. So as you saw with the cover we are now the USS HELEN PAWLOWSKI NCC-8494!

The department logo's have been updated and slightly modified.

The chapter logo is just about completed and should be done before this issue gets sent out. A special thank you to the R1 graphics and logo's department transformed the ship diagrams and gave me the idea of the final logo design.

We had our cookout last month. I am glad to see the multiple families that live near by attend. We had a great time and we did something that I have never seen done before. We had a STARFLEET Academy event. While the XO will discuss more in the Academy Graduates article, I want to say great work! We had over 7 OTS graduates and a few Security courses completed.

Our next issue will be in the new year 2012! I hope everyone has a safe holidays and may 2013 be a far more better year for all of us.

So in my closing notes, again Happy Holidays, Happy New Year and I besides our three main events between now and the new year, I look forward to hearing about your own events over the holiday and don't be shy to share them with us.

First Officer's Update By CDR Carol A. Dyl

Hello everyone and Happy Holidays.....

Finally the holiday season is here! Thank goodness! I could not stand another political commercial.

Well we have a lot going on these next two months. We have three main activities. They are:

Thanksgiving Day Meal

Each year members who are close to one another get together and share a Thanksgiving Day meal. Our meal this year will be held in Loris, SC. Kattie Staples has volunteered to host the event. So far we have the Staples family, Mogilka Family, Reynolds family, Fikes family, Young family, Nelson family and the Dyl's (of NC). If anyone else plans to attend please let us know before the 15th of November.

Christmas Party

The chapter Christmas party will be held on December 22 starting at 7 pm. This will be at the Dyl's in Whiteville, NC.

Here are a few rules for the event. A gift exchange will take place. Each person needs to bring one gift each. The gift will be placed under the tree. Each person will draw a number from 1 to however many show up. The number 1 will pick any gift from under the tree and open it.

The next person will do the same, however, the second person has a choice to keep that gift or exchange from the number one person. This continues all the way to the end. Now the number one person now has the final choice of keeping their gift or exchanging it with another from the room.

The only other rule is that due to the economy and all, please keep the gifts down to $20.00. This is all about having fun!

New Years Eve

Our final main event is the New Years eve get together. This will be on December 31st and will start at 1 pm with a Star Trek movie jam sessions. We will start with the first movie which is Star Trek the Motion Picture and work our way in order of the film.

We plan to have pizza and other snacks for a meal and it will include a ST: Online gaming event and end with the dropping of the Ball at midnight. The event will be at Jessica Reynolds house in St. Pauls, NC

Another item I need to discuss is the chapter's Christmas holiday charity event. A main theme we find in Star Trek is the "Let Me Help" and during these tough economic times, this is very evident. So each year we use two key activities; The Angel Tree and the Toy for Tots.

This year the Angel Tree goal is to adopt 4 children, 2 boys and 2 girls. I will pull the names on December 1st and send everyone an email as to the details. Participation is voluntary and do not feel as though you have to do something. We understand that with the economy the way it is, some may not have the means.

The Toy for Tots have been around for a very long time. The goal is to collect toys and deliver them to one of the drop off points set up in town. The goal is to ask family and friends to donate at least one item. The more we can help a child this season, the better!

Well in the next issue, I hope to report the success of our events. Please everyone be safe when traveling over the holidays....

Until the next issue,

Carol Dyl

Commander, STARFLEET Fleet Admiral Dave Blaser (CQ #169)

As I write this, I've just been to the Region 2 / Region 3 Joint Summit in Hammond, Louisiana, where I had a great time, and enjoyed a surprise.

I think I've mentioned before that I really enjoy going to regional summits because it gives me a chance to meet new friends and to reconnect with old friends, and this summit was certainly no exception to that, but what was different was to see how this summit was executed.

Regions 2 and 3 are very different in how they do things and in their regional personalities, but this summit was planned out and executed very, very well. It took into consideration the needs and functionality of both regions, and blended things together into an excellent event with wonderful contributions from both regions. This was the first joint regional event that has taken place in recent STARFLEET history (that I'm aware of) and the members of Regions 2 and 3 should be very proud of how well they worked together.

We have a great deal of diversity in STARFLEET. Every region is unique in the things that they do, in how they function and interact internally, and every chapter is unique from the others around them. STARFLEET is a demonstration of infinite diversity in infinite combinations, but many regions and chapters still share many things in common, from a desire to have fun and enjoy life, to trying to make the world around them a little bit better.

Regions 2 and 3 showed their diversity during their joint summit, but in a way that demonstrated that diversity could work together in harmony, to have fun and enjoy themselves, and to make the world around them better – Regions 2 and 3 raised $3,300 in support of their charity, the "Our Daily Bread" food bank in Hammond, Louisiana. I feel that this is an excellent achievement, and I hope that other regions might make a similar effort to try a joint event like this one.

Regional summits really are a great opportunity to meet other members, and a great chance to make new friends in STARFLEET, and I would really like to encourage our members to get out, take part and have fun at their summits.

When I'm out talking to people about STARFLEET, and what sets us apart from other clubs, I tell people about how interactive we are, and how people typically enjoy themselves more when they join a fan club if they're more interactive and socialize with the other members.

I think that it's pretty safe to say that we all enjoy Star Trek, and that we're more likely to enjoy ourselves when we can hang out and have fun with people who enjoy some of the same things that we do, and that's what summits and conferences are all about.

Some people will say "what happens at the summit, stays at the summit", and on some things, like Region 3's gummies, skull shaped drink glasses, and jokes about crickets, I'd probably agree, but I hope that each of you who attend your regional summit or conference will share the stories about how fun it was, the things you did, the people you met, with people who haven't been to a summit and encourage them to get out to a summit soon and to join in on the fun too!

Until the next CQ...

Vice Commander, STARFLEET Lieutenant General Bran Stimpson (CQ #169) ★★ ★

It was my great pleasure to be able to attend the Region 2/3 summit in Hammond Louisiana. Prior to the summit, I was able to spend several days in New Orleans, a place that Christina and I had never been. Then after the summit we were able to spend an evening drinking and walking Bourbon St. with some great members from Region 3. At the summit, I was able to meet some great members from across Fleet. I learned that some Regional Coordinators keep their staffs in-line by giving them oh wait, never mind, I shouldn't give away Region 3 secrets. I was introduced to the Third and Second Brigades of the STARFLEET Marine Corps and what these fine members do for their Brigades and STARFLEET. Oh yeah, and I was reminded how funny people, well certain people, can be when they have a few drinks.

MG Bran Stimpson

My attendance at the summit was a secret from our Commander STARFLEET and just about everyone else. I was able to convince Dave that due to work I was unable to attend, when in fact because of work I would be able to attend. At the Fleet Admirals dinner, which was held at a very nice steak and seafood restaurant called Middendorfs. I was able to sneak in and surprise Dave. I must admit, it was pretty cool to walk up to his table and make some sort of comment, which I am sure was sarcastic in some way, and see the surprise on his face. Dave truly had no idea what was going on.

I was able to spend that summit meeting many new members of this fine organization. The creativity, resourcefulness and talents of the members of STARFLEET will always impress me. Watching members from across the south central and south eastern United States come together in the interest of STARFLEET and friendship and place this summit together was fantastic. It was wonderfully successful and completely enjoya-

Thank you to the organizers of the Region 2/3 summit! I hope that the success of this regional combo event leads the way for other regions to consider combining resources as well.

ble weekend. I was able to talk STARFLEET, Star Trek and all sorts of other topics. I learned about the interests and lives of many members and find that connection to be the best part of STARFLEET. It is amazing that a television show that only aired for three years, one that showed a future where we all get along, spurred the creation of this fine organization that connects people from all walks of life and all nationalities. That allowed me to travel to Louisiana to meet people and experience new food and cultures is a spectacular thing. That is what STARFLEET is about: meeting people and making friends from across the country and around the

Thank you for all the positive comments about the Department Shirts from the last issue of the newsletter. We have a slight delay in producing any of those shirts. With the possible name and class change, we will wait until we make a final decision. But know, that as soon as we do, I will be making the orders.

As we move into the holiday season, many of you may be traveling to visit friends and family. But keep in mind that there are those out there waiting to take advantage of you leaving your house. Please take precautions. Some things you can do is notify your local police department and asked them to be alert in your housing area. Also going to the post office and put a stop delivery while your gone. The Post Office will hold your mail until you return. Crooks look for mail boxes that show no one has picked up the mail from there house mail box and that gives them a sign that no one is at home.

Another precaution is to put a few lights on and say a TV on a timer. That way it appears as though someone is at home.

Make sure you turn off the gas and secure all the doors and windows.

As for those who will be driving over the holidays, be prepared for any situation that you possibly can. Such as look at the route you are taking; is their construction or other delays scheduled during the same time you are driving? Insure you get enough rest. For those long distance drives, schedule stops to get rest or as a minimum stretch your legs and take a food and restroom break. You may want to consider a hotel or something for those really long drives.

I look forward to seeing as many of you for the Christmas Party this year.

Some of you have asked about seeing the new logo and department logo's on the shirts. I was not able to get them ready for this issue of the newsletter but I will have an article in Issue 2.

This brings me to my final item which is asking anyone who already plans or wants to go to the Region One Summit this year or even the STARFLEET IC2012 to get up with Paul Dyl or myself. With the economy the way it is. We would like to start the planning now. I have had some ideas of fundraising for those who want to go and help lower the individual out of pocket costs and even sharing of rooms etc. If you have any ideas just let me know and we can take a look at them.

Have fun over the holidays but be aware of the situation around you and protect you and your family.

Again, Merry Christmas and happy Holidays to you all!

Well until the next issue....

Chief Medical Officer Report CDR Carol Dyl

Merry Christmas and Happy Holidays to all!

Time is getting busy for the holidays. I just don't know how I will get thru them in such a short amount time.

Well as I said in my First Officer's Report, we have a few events scheduled for November and December. All five of them involve this department. I would like to thank Ens James Nelson for volunteering the Security Section to take a lead with the Toys for Tots. With so much going on, he has gracefully agreed to help us out. If you have any items you want to pick up and drop off, please feel free to contact James.

For the Thanksgiving meal for those who are attending, please let us know who and how many you are bringing. Also we ask that since all the main meal items are taking care of that you bring some kind of desert item.

As for the Christmas party is concerned. We will have a few baby or as they may wish to be called "Big" kids sitter available. I had forgotten to mention that the kids will all get a small gift. We ask that we keep these down to a $10 maximum.

For the Angel Tree, we will adopt four children. It is two boys ages 5 and 7, two girls ages 3 and 12. All items need to be turned in to me no later than December 16th at 6 pm. Any support you can give would be greatly appreciated.

For the New Years event, the kids will be welcomed through out the day activities and again we have a few sitters on duty for the night events.

Sorry no recipe this time around :(

Until the next issue!

'Super-Earth' Alien Planet May Be Habitable for Life by Mike Wall, SPACE.com Senior Writer

Astronomers have detected an alien planet that may be capable of supporting life as we know it — and it's just a stone's throw from Earth in the cosmic scheme of things.

The newfound exoplanet, a so-called "super-Earth" called HD 40307g, is located inside its host star's habitable zone, a just-right range of distances where liquid water may exist on a world's surface. And the planet lies a mere 42 light-years away from Earth, meaning that future telescopes might be able to image it directly, researchers said.

"The longer orbit of the new planet means that its climate and atmosphere may be just right to support life," study co-author Hugh Jones, of the University of Hertfordshire in England, said in a statement. "Just as Goldilocks liked her porridge to be neither too hot nor too cold but just right, this planet or indeed any moons that it has lie in an orbit comparable to Earth, increasing the probability of it being habitable."

The star HD 40307 is slightly smaller and less luminous than our own sun. Astronomers had previously detected three super-Earths — planets a bit more massive than our own — around the star, all of them in orbits too close-in to support liquid water.

In the new study, the research team re-analyzed observations of the HD 40307 system made by an instrument called the High Accuracy Radial velocity Planet Searcher, or HARPS.

This artist's impression shows the newfound potentially habitable alien planet HD40307g in the foreground, with its host star and two other worlds in the six-planet system.

HARPS is part of the European Southern Observatory's 11.8-foot (3.6 meters) telescope at the La Silla Observatory in Chile. The instrument allows astronomers to pick up the tiny gravitational wobbles an orbiting planet induces in its parent star.

The researchers' new analysis techniques enabled them to spot three more super-Earths around the star, including HD 40307g, which is thought to be at least seven times as massive as our home planet.

HD 40307g may or may not be a rocky planet like Earth, said study lead author Mikko Tuomi, also of the University of Hertfordshire.

"If I had to guess, I would say 50-50," Tuomi told SPACE.com via email. "But the truth at the moment is that we simply do not know whether the planet is a large Earth or a small, warm Neptune without a solid surface."

A jam-packed extrasolar system HD 40307g is the outermost of the system's six planets, orbiting at an average distance of 56 million miles (90 million kilometers) from the star. (For comparison, Earth zips around the sun from about 93 million miles, or 150 million km, away.)

The other two newfound exoplanets are probably too hot to support life as we know it, researchers said. But HD 40307g — which officially remains a "planet candidate" pending confirmation by follow-up studies — sits comfortably in the middle of the star's habitable zone.

Further, HD 40307g's orbit is distant enough that the planet likely isn't tidally locked to the star like the moon is to Earth, researchers said. Rather, HD 40307g probably rotates freely just like our planet does, showing each side of itself to the star in due course.

The lack of tidal locking "increases its chances of actually having Earth-like conditions," Tuomi said.

The new study has been accepted for publication in the journal

Astronomy & Astrophysics.

A candidate for direct observation Super-Earths have been spotted in other stars' habitable zones before. For example, a team using NASA's prolific Kepler Space Telescope announced the discovery of the potentially habitable world Kepler-22b in December 2011.

Kepler-22b lies 600 light-years away, which is not terribly far considering that our Milky Way galaxy is about 100,000 light-years wide.

But HD 40307g is just 42 light-years from us — close enough that future instruments may be able to image it directly, scientists say.

"Discoveries like this are really exciting, and such systems will be natural targets for the next generation of large telescopes, both on the ground and in space," David Pinfield of the University of Hertfordshire, who was not involved in the new study, said in a statement.

Vacant Department Chief Positions

I would like to take this time and announce a few Department Head appointments; Chief Communications is Ashley Walker, Chief Engineering is Gary Reynolds, Chief Support Services is Jessica Reynolds.

I thank you all for taking on the extra responsibilities that come with being a Department Head Officer.

With that said, the USS HELEN PAWLOWSKI has numerous position vacancies on the Command Staff. Key Department Head positions and Support Staff positions are available. If you feel you may be interested in any of these positions, please feel free to contact the First Officer or Commanding Officer and ask about them.

For more information on the different departments and what their duties and responsibilities are, please refer to the USS HELEN PAWLOWSKI Membership Handbook. Here you will find all the information that you will need to know as far as positions in each department and what each department does within the chapter.

Also if you feel you may want to be a Department Head, please refer to Regulation 500 which goes into further details.

The following key leadership positions are vacant; Second Officer, Third Officer, Chief Operations, Chief Science, Chief Diplomatic Corps, and Marine Strike Group CO.

R1 VRC-Program Operations FCPT Scott Gibson (Region One Channel One Newsletter Sep 2012)

Hello everyone! I'm Fleet Captain Scott Gibson and I'm the Vice Regional Coordinator for Program Operations for Region One. I wanted to take this moment to introduce myself and speak to you a little about the programs and services available to the membership of the "First Fleet".

To let you know a little about myself: I first joined STARFLEET in March of 1986, when a then Cmdr. Susan Hampton started the group that would be the Alaric's shuttle North Star at a local university convention in Greensboro, North Carolina. I'd been a life-long fan of Star Trek and Sci-Fi, and when I joined the Fleet at the age of 15, I'd thought I'd found the coolest group ever; I felt that I had found people that I could share my love of Star Trek with and be understood and accepted as a fellow fan. I had seen STARFLEET flyers at conventions in Virginia before and I was excited that a group was starting near my home. As a member of the Alaric and, later, as Executive Officer and then Captain of the Bonaventure, the first and best thing about STARFLEET to me was always the people. Through meetings, parties, conventions and group trips, the aspect of STARFLEET and Region One that has always appealed to me was the sense of "family" that you can experience within the club. To me, that is the best gift anyone could receive as a member and the highest compliment an organization could have bestowed upon it: your fellow members are not just members, they are extended family. It was for that reason that I was honored to accept the position of Vice Regional Coordinator for Program Operations when our Regional Coordinator, RAdm. Ruth Lane offered it to me a couple of years ago. I view this as a way of giving something back to my fellow members and I hope that I do well by all of you.

As VRC of Programs, I'm responsible for coordinating, promoting and supporting all of the programs available to the membership of Region One. Since assuming the position of VRC, I have worked with the directors of our various services to update their plans and procedures to offer more for the membership. The programs in Region One are meant to enhance the STARFLEET experience of not only the Chapters as a whole, but for the individual members.

Here are the programs that Region One offers our membership:

Space Camp Scholarship Program- This program works with chapters within the region to raise money and award scholarships to deserving young members to attend Space Camp held at the U.S. Space and Rocket Center in Huntsville, Alabama.

Regional Awards Program – The awards program recognizes the achievements and accomplishments of individual members, groups and chapters within Region One. Nominations, in most circumstances, are made by chapter commanding officers (CO/XO) and up, and awards take the forms of certificates and decorative award ribbons that can be worn on costumes and uniforms.

Region One Historian – The Regional Historian is the chronicler of the timeline and events that shaped Region One as a whole. The Historian, as part of his responsibilities, will work with chapters to add their input to the timeline and can provide resources to help individual chapters record their own histories.

Publications Officer –The Publications Officer is responsible for publishing and distributing the Channel One, the official Region One newsletter and keeping the general Region One membership up-to-date on what's going on within the Region.

Retention & Recruiting Officer- This officer serves to assist the Region and Chapters in attracting and retaining membership. He also serves as a resource to aid chapters that have fallen below strength or have failed to report on a regular basis, to regain and maintain their qualifications to retain their chapter charters.

Regional Division Chief (RDC) Program- Regional Department Chiefs program is designed to help coordinate information or ideas that can help Chapter Division Chiefs do their job better and therefore make the STARFLEET experience meaningful and worthwhile. While the RDC program started out with programs just for Department Chiefs, the program has evolved to include everyone in the region and like minded general members can also join. The RDC program has programs for general fandom, costuming and

Fleet Captain Scott Gibson
VRC-Program Operations, R1.

RDC Region One Logos and Graphics Department CPT Carnell Eubanks (Region One Channel One Newsletter Sep 2012)

Some new ideas of how we may be of assistance to the STAR-FLEET chapters.

In addition to ships logos , we can also assist with the following. Certificates of appreciation , of promotion within the chapter, or special recognition.

We can also help with business cards, posters and flyers to support a special events you may have coming up.

Once an image is done it can be saved in a variety of formats suitable for web backgrounds or ready for you to print or send out to have printed.

If something is currently beyond the ability of our talent pool we will try and seek an alternative or put a request out for a onetime volunteer form the fleet at large.

With each new artist who agrees to lend their services to our team abilities grow.

So in the spirit of Star Trek let us help!

If you need assistance with your graphics, if you are an artist and would like to lend your talents, or if you have a question in general please contact me at :

darkon1@atlanticbb.net

On behalf of my department thank you for allowing us to serve.

Office: (2371-2378) U.S.S. Voyager, Deck 1 Ready Room adjoining Bridge

Includes updates through SD 56000 (2379); updated addenda pending

Starfleet Career Summary:

prior ? Science officer under Adm. Paris on the U.S.S. Al-Batani, Arias mission.

2371 ? Given command of U.S.S. Voyager, new Intrepid-class starship. Ship disappeared in Badlands during mission to pursue Maquis ship.

2374 ? Re-established contact

with Starfleet via alien relay station, reporting that Voyager is stranded in Delta Quadrant and most of crew is still alive.

2378 ? Commanded Voyager back to Earth by way of Borg transwarp conduit. Promoted to Admiral shortly thereafter.

Bio-Psychological Profile: Report of Starfleet Medical/Counselor's Office

Janeway is a tough captain who is not afraid to take chances, while her intelligence, thoughtfulness, dedication and diplomacy have earned her respect and recognition as one of the best in Starfleet. Her talents in engineering and science allow her hands-on expertise, if necessary; as such she has shown a tendency to defy the Starfleet protocol against beam-down of commanding officers into unsecured away team missions. She prefers to be addressed as "Captain" rather than either the gender-based "sir" or "ma'am." Aside from math and the sciences, her studies have included chromo-linguistics, American Sign Language, and the gestural idioms of the Leyron.

This subject's penchant for the scientific method and clear-cut choices has given her a healthy dose of skepticism, which usually provides a command asset in dealing with new situations. Her preference for difficult studies is self-traced back to childhood, when she would prefer that to outdoor play. Since then, she has indicated no pleasure in outdoor camping, hiking, or cooking.

For relaxation, Janeway enjoys role-playing and recreation in Holodeck programs, such as Gothic novels, skiing and sailing. In her youth in rural agricultural Indiana, she played tennis, and at age 12 walked back from a match she lost for 7 km in a thunderstorm; however, she has not played the game regularly since 2354. As a child, she also studied beginning ballet and performed the "Dying Swan" at age 6, but in all her activities — many of them pushed by her parents, such as gardening — she never studied a musical instrument. She has often ascribed this situation to her sister being the artist of the family.

The subject reports one severe depression in life, when her father died under the polar ice cap on Tau Ceti Prime in the mid 2350s. She stayed bedridden with grief until her sister finally coerced her into accepting the fact and moving on, literally dragging Janeway out of bed. The captain has credited her father with forcing her to learn her own lessons and not shielding her from life.

In 2371, Janeway gambled on giving troubled Starfleet renegade Tom Paris a reprieve from his Rehabilitation Settlement in New Zealand by tapping him as a scout for a search-and-rescue mission of her security chief gone undercover aboard a Maquis vessel. However, contact with her new ship, the U.S.S. Voyager, was lost after SD 48307.5 and all hands were presumed lost.

File Update: Delta Quadrant Addendum
Report by Cmdr. Chakotay, First Officer, U.S.S. Voyager

As with all captains through the ages, Janeway looks to her crew like a flock of sheep, but being thrown into the Delta Quadrant and being utterly cut off from home has intensified that burden to levels few commanders may have endured. The loneliness has also led her to relax at times the separation that commanders usually impose upon themselves purely to maintain the "respectful distance" — such as an occasional Sandrine's Bar pool game on the Holodeck.

Her Starfleet training and the graciousness and grit obviously instilled in her upbringing are to blame and to credit for the situation her ship is in: following the Prime Directive to the letter, even if it means stranding oneself 70 years from home, and melding a crew of Maquis and other non-regulation members into an effective force and family that can live as well as merely survive. Although we have our differences, my respect and admiration for her grow with each day. I appreciate her gamble in my suggestion to select B'Elanna Torres as chief engineer, while we all now know her instincts were correct when she originally opposed my desire to enter alliances with the Kazon or Trabe. We see eye-to-eye on numerous issues, especially a healthy respect for life and other cultures no matter what shape or form, and I cannot fault her on the handling of our encounter with the suicidal Q and his Q pursuer.

She has not only refrained from creating a shipboard fraternization policy but feels eventually the crew will pair off anyway—except for her. I can sense the captain yet fears to "give up" and fully separate emotionally from her fiancée, Mark. Her trusted Tuvok's disobedience of direct orders on the grounds of logic when it seemed to help our trek home clearly hit home as well, though overall she takes confidence in the strength of her people.

Amelia Earhart was a personal heroine, so meeting her on the '37s planet was an indescribable event — as was the gratification that not one of the combined Maquis-Starfleet crew chose to stay behind on the human colony.

Personnel Medical File, EMH
Acting CMO:
SD 50500

While amazed at her durability and courage, I must go on record after over two years with my concern at the captain's bent toward constantly putting her personal security at risk. I trust it will not be her undoing, and this ship's. While my confidence in her mental state has not wavered, I am pleased she has taken my ship-wide advice to pursue arts and recreation forms as a diversion to our long journey. The captain has returned to tennis after 19 years, taken up watercolors, and even shared a childhood ballet with the ship on talent night.

DQ Addendum, Cmdr. Chakotay
SD 50525

The captain would never admit it, but for the record I would note her action beyond the call of duty in almost single-handedly saving this ship from the strain of macro-virus that nearly killed its crew. The captain also amazed me by offering to sacrifice her life to save Kes on Nichristi, even though its spiritualism was a puzzle to her, and her strength of will was never stronger than when defeating what I would call a life entity succubus.

As our journey grows I cannot help but grow in respect and affection for our captain, stirred on by our short-lived planetary abandonment before our viral infection could be cured. Thanks to that incident, I have every confidence that Kathryn Janeway will see us through our predicament with high spirits in, dare I say it, the best Starfleet tradition.

STARFLEET International Conference 2013

It is an honor and a privilege to personally invite you to the STARFLEET International Conference 2013, to be held at the beautiful and luxurious MCM Elegante Hotel in the heart of Dallas, Texas on August 1-4, 2013. We have a lot of surprises in store for those in attendance, in addition to all of the wonderful things you've come to expect from an International Conference!

The theme for this IC is "The Year of the Phoenix", as 2012 is supposed to be the year the world comes to an end. From the ashes, the phoenix will arise, reborn. As Gene Roddenberry was often referred to as the Great Bird of the Galaxy (which was also referred to in the Star Trek: New Frontier books by Peter David) and the Phoenix was the name of Zefram Cochrane's ship in Star Trek: First Contact, we felt it would be a fitting theme for this 2013's International Conference.

Information will be added to the website as it becomes available, and we strongly encourage you to keep checking with us as 2013 approaches — we'll be posting some very exciting information between now and then.

In the meantime, if you are planning on attending IC2013, we suggest that you take this opportunity to lock in the early registration rates by printing your information on the downloadable registration form and returning it to us with your full payment to the address provided below:

"Our future is our past"

The USS HELEN PAWLOWSKI NCC-8494 is a correspondence chapter of STARFLEET International. We are a Star Trek fan club that come together on a monthly basis via computer chat areas, telephone, and even video conferencing to discuss events in the Star Trek universe, whether or not your interest lie in the Classic Star Trek, Star Trek: The Next Generation, Star Trek: Deep Space Nine, Star Trek: Voyager or Star Trek: Enterprise.

Many of our crew enjoy going to the movies, to Star Trek and other Sci-Fi conventions. A great part of being able to experience the dream of Gene Roddenberry gives many of us the opportunity to help our community by volunteering in community projects such as the Angel Tree Project over Christmas and the US Marine Corps Toys for Tots.

While many volunteer to participate, others do not, but our main goal is to have FUN!
